New Research Group Meets Here to Discuss Control of Traffic Congestion on Beltway

by Lisa Feinberg

Congestion and safety on the Capital Beltway are a major concern for residents in the greater Washington region. Citizens and business leaders, together with state and local elected and appointed officials - over 200 in all, met in a "Conference on the Capital Beltway" to discuss these concerns on March 14 at Martin's Crosswinds in Greenbelt. Later the Traffic Research Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization formed to deal with serious transportation problems facing the region, was launched at a meeting of the greater Washington Board of Trade on September 12 at the Greenbelt Hilton.

The new foundation will inform and educate the public and government officials about the quality, effectiveness, deficiencies and problems of current local, interstate and intrastate transportation routes. More specifically, the foundation's goals center on traffic congestion and safety on the Capital Beltway, including the need for eastern and western bypass facilities, transportation alternatives and a research data base.

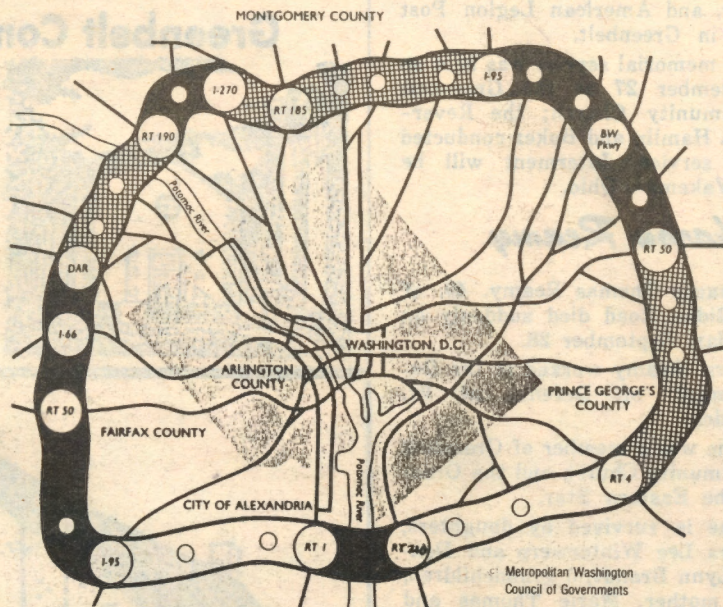

These activities recognize that the Beltway, designed as a regional bypass around Washington, now serves predominantly local traffic and in fact has been described as "greater Washington's main street." They also recognize that about a third of today's Beltway traffic is truly non-local and could be diverted from the Beltway if an alternative route were available.

The traffic situation is a "regional problem causing regional action," said Robert Gladstone at the September 12 meeting. Founder and president of Quadrangle Development Corporation, he noted that by the twenty-first century the Beltway will be inundated with traffic, resulting in a decrease of productivity because of poor employee morale.

Gladstone also pointed out that last year there were more than 2,300 accidents reported on the Beltway and, if the situation continues, he believed economic growth will also be impaired.

Hal Kassoff, administrator of the Maryland State Highway Administration, explained that the Department of Traffic has been focusing on completion of the Metro program, which he referred to as the backbone for transportation to and from the District of Columbia. But the highways are still very important, he said, adding that there is a "new era of concern for highway transportation."

Jack Herrity, Chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, emphasized that "...

Projected congestion and slower speeds on the Beltway in the year 2005.

— from the Greater Washington Board of Trade News

roadway congestion is the most important regional transportation issue this community has faced since the creation of Metro. ... We have to pull together and meet the challenge of traffic congestion on our roads and bridges, especially the Capital Beltway."

Three-Phase Program

Herrity's proposal for a three-phase program was approved. Phase 1, he said, will document objectively the need for a Washington bypass. The Phase 2 undertaking will arrive at a consensus within the region on the need for the bypass. Once a consensus is reached, Phase 3 will identify some funding mechanism to pay for construction of the bypass.

Presented to the newly formed group were recommendations from the March 14 Conference on the Capital Beltway. At that earlier conference the controversial Inter-County Connector (ICC) in Maryland was discussed as an important element of greater Washington's future transportation system. It was suggested that completion of the ICC be accelerated.

In addressing the conference, Prince Georges County Executive Parris Glendening explained that even though six of nine Beltway-related interchange projects "identified as needed" in the county have been funded, "we, like our sister jurisdictions, will quickly reach maximum capacity."

Glendening suggested that (1) "planned and programmed improvements to the Beltway itself and its interchanges be completed and substantial improvements to feeder routes and ancillary roads be programmed to improve the flow of traffic" and (2) "we must look at non-Beltway alternatives to the movement of people," such as an "outer beltway in some configuration, to a significant cross-county highway, such as the ICC and to non-road alternatives."

He stressed that "all our regional plans and local plans for the movement of people are predicated on completion of the entire Metro system. ..."

Wanted: All Past Misses Greenbelt

If you are, or know of a past Miss Greenbelt, the Miss Greenbelt Pageant Committee of the Labor Day Festival would like to hear from you. Cheri Gainor, chair of the 1987 pageant committee, wants to reach all former winners of the Miss Greenbelt competition to invite them to next year's pageant. Since 1987 is the 50th anniversary of Greenbelt, many of the Festival activities will feature special events, a look back at earlier festivals, and a reunion for former Greenbelters. Some of the earlier pageant winners now live some distance from Greenbelt — would you believe Alaska — so Gainor and her committee need to contact those individuals as soon as possible so travel and other arrangements can be made. Anyone with any information, may contact Cheri at 441-8589.

Plogman Is Nominated to Fill County School Board Vacancy

Suzanne Plogman, Greenbelt's school board candidate, was nominated by county executive Parris Glendening to fill the district's vacant school board seat.

Glendening announced the nomination Sunday night, September 28, at a Windsor Green fund raiser for Plogman. Plogman is already a candidate in the November 4 election for the position.

Plogman who turned 33 Monday called the announcement "a great birthday present." "It's an honor to be nominated to the school board by a county executive who has made county education his administration's number one priority," she said.

"The appointment would give the second district a vote on some critical upcoming issues and give our district some representation as the budget process begins," Plogman said. The district seat has been vacant since this summer when board member Lesley Kreimer, also of Greenbelt, resigned to become vice principal at Thomas Pullen Middle School.

The nomination must still be approved by the county council. Hearings leading to a vote on Plogman's appointment could begin as soon as mid-October. The appointment would be effective until December 4, when the winner of the November 4 election would take the position.

The Northwestern High School special education teacher, on unpaid maternity leave from teaching, is on the county's magnet school advisory board.

Plogman currently serves on the Greenbelt Planning and Advisory Board, the GHI Nominations and Elections Committee, and she is a vice president of the Roosevelt Democratic Club.

Besides the Glendening family, attendees at the Sunday fund raiser included Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, Mayor Pro Tem Tom White, council members Toni Bram and Joe Isaacs, State Senator Leo Green and State Delegate Joan Pitkin. Isaacs is Plogman's campaign treasurer.

How City Has Changed!

Seven years ago, I moved to the City of Greenbelt because of its beauty and peacefulness. Although I live in an adult complex, I used to sit on my patio at night and see small children riding by on their tricycles. Many of them would greet me. That was incredible!

It's also incredible how the city has changed and I cite the swift expansion as the cause. Recent crimes have made the front page of the Washington Post. If we continue to expand, the city will turn into a ghetto. I believe if we wanted to live in a ghetto, we would have never moved to Greenbelt.

The city is still beautiful, but it becomes ugly when the residents are afraid of being robbed, raped or seeing adults prancing around in their birthday suits.

On hind sight, I think the people who voted for this expansion or backed it were ill-informed and should hang their heads in shame. The same applies to the people who did not vote or otherwise oppose it, myself being one of them.

James J. Magness

Editor's Note: It is tempting to agree with the last paragraph but in fairness it should be pointed out that: (1) people don't vote for expansion and development, elected county officials do; (2) landowners have a right to develop their property within county zoning regulations; and (3) city officials and many residents have fought hard to prevent zoning changes which result in overdeveloping.

They Will Be Missed!

Greenbriar has had to say good-bye to two people who are truly loved in this community, Faye and Charlie Sokol. They are pulling up stakes and moving South where the weather is warm; Alabama to be exact.

Charlie was co-founder and first president of the Roosevelt Democratic Club, served six years on the board of directors for Greenbriar phase II and was president at the time of his departure. He was also a very active member and served on the board of St. Hugh's.

They both were always ready to give of themselves to nurture others. They will be missed but remembered always.

Greenbriar Phase II

Museum Opposed

For attention of all Greenbelt Taxpayers. Have you any idea what the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum (FOGM) are proposing that we taxpayers and members of GHI shoulder so that their ego mad scheme to establish a museum may be realized?

The city is to use our taxes to fund not only the purchase of a GHI home, but to pay the monthly charges on same, pay the insurance, maintain the exterior and grounds, have windows cleaned at least twice a year, install a security system and fire alarm, even purchase exhibits and maintain an account to pay bills the museum may incur (where or how is not mentioned). Also perform services for FOGM — that is, accounting, contracting and purchasing. All this to go on ad infinitum. If your Latin is a little rusty, that means for ever and ever except that the FOGM may withdraw after five years.

Do you as taxpayers really want to foot such a bill? Think what this council would incur for future councils. Think of the burden of maintaining such a project. Will city personnel have to cut the grass, tend the shrubbery, and wash the windows? I should think the city manager would balk at that. Would a security system mean our police force would be involved?

If you don't want this to become a reality for which you will be paying for ever, you had better raise your voices in protest. I am, herewith, raising mine as a member of GHI and as a taxpayer in the City of Greenbelt.

"Antonio's is certainly a pretty solid restaurant these days, with mainly good food, reasonable prices and vastly improved decor."

"Among the appetizers, fried zucchini is excellent, as are the white beans. And so are the mussels, which are plump and fresh."

"There are some good side touches here, like the excellent house-made bread, dense, yeasty and very fresh. And there's a remarkably good Caesar salad as an option with the entrees."

"The strong points among the entrees are the pastas, which are made in house, and the red sauces, which have been nicely fruity and fresh tasting."

"They use a high-quality veal here, pale and fine-textured. One night we had a very good veal zingara, with mushrooms, green pepper and onion in a mild, meaty and slightly lemon sauce. (Note that there is a good chicken special with a very similar sauce)."

Busy Month Begins For Area Runners

by Larry Noel

There will be several upcoming races in the Greenbelt area. Two races will be held on Saturday, October 4 at Greenbelt Lake starting at the refreshment stand. A one mile will start at 8:30 a.m. and a four mile called the Bunion Buster, sponsored by the Prince Georges Choral Society, will begin at 9 a.m. Participants should sign up 30 minutes before each race. There is a fee. For more information call 474-7573 or 474-9258.

On Saturday, October 5, Greenbelters looking for a race to prepare them for the 26 mile marathon in New York City or the Marine Corps Marathon in Washington can enter the 20 mile which starts at the Torpedo Factory in Old Alexandria at 8 a.m. Runners should register one hour before the race.

On Saturday, October 25, a 1.7 mile and a five mile race will be held by the D. C. Road Runners and the Prince Georges Running Club (with many Greenbelters) at the Greenbelt National Park off Greenbelt Road. The 1.7 mile race starts at 10 a.m. and the five mile at 10:30 a.m. There is a fee. Runners should register one hour before the race. This is the 10th Annual Powdered Snow Donut Run.

For those runners, or walkers, who want more variety than the path around Greenbelt Lake, there is another path over half a mile long that roughly parallels the lake path. This path starts just off Crescent Road about 20 yards into the St. Hugh's School parking lot where a right should be into the woods for about 100 yards until a small stream is reached. Since it is not always small and is too wide to jump, it is best to go right or left for about 10 yards, then cross the stream and get back on the path. The path continues behind the old power station to the lake path. Go right for 20 yards, until a leaf-covered soft dirt path is found. Turn left here onto the path and go for about a quarter of a mile, at which point the lake path is rejoined for 100 yards. Then veer off to the right onto a very secluded path until it rejoins the lake path near the water fountain at the refreshment stand. For more information call Larry Noel at 474-9362.

LANES CLOSED ON I-95

The State Highway Administration will close the following lanes on I-95 (Capital Beltway) at Route 202 in Prince Georges County to facilitate construction:

The westbound right lane of I-95 will be closed from 9 a.m. Wed., Oct. 8 through 9 p.m. Fri., Oct. 10.

Chief Hutson Announces Two Police Promotions

by Jack Brickman

Greenbelt Police Chief Frank Hutson announced last week the promotions of two patrol division officers, both effective as of August 31. The officers will continue with that division as supervisors. Cpl. Thomas H. Miskell was promoted to the rank of sergeant and PFC Christopher D. Field was promoted to the rank of corporal.

The 47-year-old Sgt. Miskell, a veteran of 19 years, joined the Greenbelt Police Department on October 9, 1967, and has distinguished himself in the field of auto theft investigation. The department's expert in that field, Sgt. Miskell is presently engaged in the planning and organization of a seminar on auto theft investigation in which law enforcement agencies nationwide are expected to participate. The seminar will be hosted by the Greenbelt Police Department and held here in July 1987.

Cpl. Field, age 30, joined the department on September 9, 1981. He is one of the department's two firearms experts and has been trained in the use and repair of firearms at the Smith and Wesson Firearms School. In addition to his patrol duties, Cpl. Field is one of the department's firearms instructors, and his skill in the repair and servicing of firearms has made it possible for all of this work to be done in-house, representing a saving in down-time and cost to the department.

Gray Panthers Meet

Gray Panthers will have their first regular meeting Saturday, October 11 at 1:30 p.m. Sue Ward, head of Prince Georges County Department of Aging, will speak on "Why One Should be Politically Active." There will be ample time for questions and discussion. All persons of all ages are invited. Free refreshments will be available.

Utopia's 'Bell, Book & Candle' Is Really a Bewitching Play

by Barbara Likowski

Watching the Greenbelt Arts Center's production of John Van Druten's "Bell, Book, and Candle" is a delightful way to spend an evening.

The Greenbelt Players do a splendid job in projecting a combination of light comedy and believability in witchcraft. The play, about 20th century witches, is produced by special arrangement with Dramatist Play Services and directed by A.C. Mendenhall and Marie Tousignant. The directors can be proud of their efforts.

The woman meets man and falls in love theme is complicated by the fact that the woman in this case is a witch and witches can't fall in love. They can, however, cast spells and there are a few spells cast with unpredictable results.

Although all of the players do a good job, it is Greenbelter Sean Coe who stands out. Cast as Nicky Holroyd, brother of the main character, Coe does such a professional job that he is at once Nicky, and not a character in a play. From the moment he casts a spell on the telephone, he captivates the audience with his realistic portrayal of a young man sure of himself and his abilities as a witch (warlock). He is caring, self-assured, petty, arrogant, revengeful, fun-loving—all of these and more. And when he dances across the stage in an imitation of a flamenco dancer it's not really funny but the natural kind of thing one would expect from a young man—and the audience tends to smile indulgently.

Judy Holland, also a Greenbelter, does a superb job as Aunt Queenie, the effervescent, bumbling "old maid" aunt who is also a witch. She projects an "other world" quality that endears her to the audience and makes them believe that she really does stir up potions and other such things, although she never actually says she does.

Greenbelter Carolyn Boone and Marty Derr are well cast as the lovers Gillian Holroyd and Shep Henderson. Pretty Carolyn in her black cocktail dress and handsome Marty in his tuxedo look the part of a modern young couple falling in love. Both give good performances. However, at times it was difficult to hear Carolyn because she did not always face the audience. This was partly because the script often called for her to turn her back on Derr as she spoke. Perhaps this could be overcome by having him move so that in turning away from him, she was, at least, partly facing the audience. In spite of this the couple do a more than adequate job of convincing the audience of the reality of their feelings for each other.

Two character players round out the cast. Richard Mills, as Sidney Redlitch, author of a book on witchcraft, is at his best when showing his fear of the other worldliness of the others. Last, but very necessary to the plot, is Pyewacket the cat or "familiar" of Gillian, who in real life is Fonzo Mendenhall.

Holt Wetherald did a splendid job with the set for the first two acts. It really helped to set the mood of the play. However necessary as is the change for act 3, the room does not seem to reflect the personality of a very modern young woman but rather that of an older, more sedate person. On the other hand the clothing worn by all characters fits the time and the mood and age of each. It is surely no accident that the young witch, Gillian, wears black.

All in all this play is worth seeing. It continues to run Friday and Saturday nights, October 10, 11, 17 and 18.

Youth Football

by Jeff Keir

The Division leading Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club's 95 lb. AA Football Team plays host to its Beltsville counterpart this Saturday, October 4 at 9:30 a.m. at Braden Field. This is the first meeting of the season between these two teams. The Greenbelt 75 lb. AA Football Team plays host to its division leader, College Park, right after the 95 lb. team game, at 10:45 a.m. It should make an exciting doubleheader. Come join the Greenbelt cheerleaders in enthusiastically cheering both teams on to victory in their first home games at Braden!!

Both teams play their Bradbury Heights counterparts away on Saturday, October 11 at the J. Eager Howard Rec. Center. The 75 lb. team plays at 9:30 a.m. and the 95 lb. team plays at 10:45 a.m. Each is trying to even its record against early season losses to Bradbury Heights. Bradbury Heights currently shares first place in the 95 lb. AA Division with Greenbelt. This game may determine the final standings. Fan support is important. Join us on October 11 for these two important away games. Meet at Braden, 8:30 a.m., in the St. Hugh's parking lot.

Military Intelligence Unit

Completes Annual Exercise

The 629th Military Intelligence Battalion (CEWI), a unit of the Maryland Army National Guard, headquartered in Greenbelt, recently completed its first-ever Annual Training Exercise at Ft. A.P. Hill, Virginia.

During the two-week training exercise with the 29th Infantry Division (LIGHT), the members of the 629th attended military intelligence classes and provided specialized personnel for division missions. They also participated in the light infantry "Rites of Passage" exercise that is part of the initiation process for all 29th Division soldiers, which includes such basic skills as map reading, bayonet training, rappelling, chemical warfare training, and hand-to-hand combat.

The 629th Battalion was reactivated as part of the 29th Division on October 5, 1985 at Ft. Belvoir, Virginia.

GHI NOTES

The GHI Board of Directors will meet Thursday, October 2 at 8 p.m. Agenda items include the proposal for auditing services for 1986, the definition of family in the Mutual Ownership Contract and rules and regulations, the manager's proposed 1987 budget and SLSC report and proposed bylaws amendments.

Where can you count on quality?

Quality banking. It's more than the smile on a teller's face. Or the right kinds of services. It's a hundred things—some measurable, some not—that can make a bank a pleasure to deal with.

Quality is being every place you're needed.

At Mellon, we've always made it a point to get close to our customers.

That's why we have more than 300 community offices of our Mellon Banks in Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland. Mellon customers in Maryland can also take advantage of MOST[®] machines in Maryland, Virginia and Washington, DC. And soon CashStream[®] and CIRRUS[®] machines will be available as well.

Quality is giving easy answers to hard questions.

It's help from people who are smart, knowledgeable, and really want to help. The kind of people you find at your neighborhood Mellon office.

Quality is keeping one jump ahead of the times.

Did you know, back in the 50s, a Mellon Bank was one of America's first banks with its own computer? Ever since, we've been a leader in using technology to serve you better. And soon, we'll have more innovative services in store for you.

Quality is safety in numbers.

Nowadays it's good to be sure that a bank is solid and well run enough to protect your hard-earned money.

With over $30 billion in assets, Mellon is America's 12th largest banking company, the largest by far in the Central Atlantic region. Despite the fact that we have nearly a million customers, we make sure each one receives the highest standard of service.

Quality is being a good neighbor.

For all of us, a bank represents far more than money. Mellon's role as a responsible neighbor goes well beyond our daily business. Last year alone, Mellon and its employees contributed more than $12 million to local causes ranging from child care to career training, from neighborhood improvement to health services.

This all adds up to quality banking. You have a right to expect it anywhere. And you can count on it at Mellon Bank.

Mellon Bank
Quality banking.
